Baby Nicholas had his simulation today, the plan will take almost 2 weeks to be ready. Our start date we were given is October 19, 2010. We have a clinic appointment tomorrow and we meet with Neurosurgeons down here. We are assigned a whole new team during our stay here on Friday at the hospital that will monitor him during treatment. He still has no eyelashes and he lost more of his eyebrows but still has a little hair left from chemo. It doesn't matter though he's still so beautiful to me! I am so proud of him he has endured so very much and still smiles - I love you my Nicky Bear!!!
