

November 14, 2010

Written by NickyBear's Momma

Saturday, 13 November 2010 22:35 - Last Updated Sunday, 14 November 2010 22:39

Sundays are long days down here. Nothing is open and too much time to think - I didn't mention that Nicholas' hair has now starting falling out in his highest radiated area near his scar and since we are only 18 treatments in we still have a lot more to go so I am stressed out over it. All day every day he's all I think about - I look at him and just cry I just wish God never allowed this to happen to him ... gladly I would take every bullet he's taking to relieve him no matter what the outcome would be. We are so close to done yet the effects of treatment are filling my head daily I just pray so hard that God's hands protect him Lord please watch over him