

June 9, 2010

Written by NickyBear's Momma
Tuesday, 08 June 2010 23:30 -

This is our boy how much I love him it hurts ... my baby has tubes coming out of different areas of his body. Today he had his line placed so that he does not need IV's this is the two lines on his chest. The second is in his stomach to feed him ... he's been so strong ... I hold him and melt into tears ... why is this happening only God knows but it is taking its toll on me ... I die inside watching my baby go through procedures ... I would do it all, I would give my life for him ... I would do anything for him ... God please watch over his body and soul and KEEP him cancer free. We are inpatient ... only for the night to make sure he's stable from both procedures.