It all starts at check - in, but first I am in awe I am sitting at home today looking at the time and knowing I was suppose to be sitting in a waiting room after surgery or recovery with Nicky. GOD IS SOOOOO AMAZING. .... don't you like knowing the ending to this update first though? (smile) ... if you don't read below - MRI CLEAR ... Surgery CANCELLED! I want to update you on the entire trip that we expected to stay for a week longer.

Nicky and I arrived on Thursday and checked in and scooted to the hospital to get accessed and a stop at the triage. It was the first time he was willing to get on the scale alone and do his height. I was so proud of him being such a big boy. We then have our first follow up visit at the endocrine clinic. The endocrinologist said the only reason we haven't met them yet is because everything with Nickys labs so far show that the treatment has not effected his growth. This is such a blessing.

Some of the things that I saw in the hospital were really interesting. I saw a lot of people who were really sick and I was really sad to see that. I also saw a lot of people who were really happy and I was really happy to see that. I was really happy to see that because I was really happy to see that.
