

September 23, 2010

Written by NickyBear's Momma

Thursday, 23 September 2010 18:54 - Last Updated Sunday, 26 September 2010 10:30

---

Praising GOD!!!! Nicholas' scans were clean and that means we are headed to Jacksonville for Proton radiation. It is in moments like today that life can change completely, I have learned that through my other families here. Though I celebrate this MRI - my heart is also heavy for my friends that did not have good scans in the last few weeks. Today I will count my blessings. So we are in the clear for the next part of treatment! We have a long week ahead of us filled with tests etc. Tomorrow Nicholas will have a swallow study .... we pray he's able to finally swallow liquids. Food isn't the problem so please say a prayer we get good results tomorrow too!

I want to thank everyone that prayed for our scan today .... there were so many of you texting me and letting me know you were praying for our boy - THANK YOU!

Also the photo included is a gift our friends Ginny and Baby David sent us for his 1st Birthday - Thank you!!!